Update

City turns down surplus

THANKS BUT no thanks a majority of the city council said Monday night to the offer of $113,000 in state surplus funds.

The vote to seek the funding was 3-2 with Councilmen Norm Paul, Ralph Doetsch and Rusty Hammer in favor and Mayor Dean Chamberlin and Bill Podgorsek opposed.

While not formally voting to reject the state funds, the decision not to apply puts Campbell out of the money for this year.

The big factor in the offer was the stipulation that the city agree not to grant pay hikes to city employees in order to receive the funding. Another reason, cited by the majority, is the fact that the city has adequate funds to operate.

In voting against the motion Chamberlin told councilmen he didn't see how he could reject the state funds and also said he wasn't sure that 'down the line" the city might not need that $113,000 after all.

CAMPBELL, one of the last cities to take action on the state Proposition 13 bail-out funds, joins a majority of cities in Santa Clara County that took similar action.

Those turning down state funds include Sunnyvale, Santa Clara, Los Gatos, Saratoga and Gilroy, among others.

Cities who have signed the agreement and wiil receive state funding include San Jose, Santa Clara County, Milpitas and Palo Alto.

Three picked by council

JANE P. Meyer, 871 W. Latimer ave., is the newest member of the Campbell Planning Commission.

The executive secretary and office manager for a Santa Clara mobile home sales firm was picked Monday night from a field of four candidates for the post. The four were interviewed by the council prior to the regular session that night.

Named to the Youth Advisory Commission Monday night were Lori Wernicke, 526 Latimer circle and Stephen Muller, 323 S. Virginia avenue.

Wernicke, a sophomore at Campbell High School, is a former youth commissioner who resigned when she moved out of the city. She now lives locally again.

Muller, a Campbell High School graduate, attends West Valley College.

City tax rate one of highest in county

CAMPBELL HAS the dubious distinction of having the second highest overall tax rate in the county, a report issued by the county finance department last week revealed.

The city's overall highest rate is $5.411, compared to Milpitas, the highest, at $5.755.

Lowest rate in the county is that of Mt. View with $4.284.

According to John Shaw, assistant county finance director, the average tax rate following passage of Proposition 13 is 57 per cent less than last year. At that time the county average was $12 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

Campbell's tax rate includes the $4.000 combined county-city-school tax levy, and override or bond indebtedness rates of .109 for the county, .290 for the city and 1.012 for the school districts.

LOCAL BOND ISSUES which residents are still paying for through the city 29 cent tax rate include the 1959 streets and storm drain projects, 1967 city hall, library, streets, fire station and park bond issue and the 1969 park bond issue.

The loop street and minor street repair bond issue is being paid for out of local sales tax revenue and is not included in the 29 cents.

HCD hearing at San Tomas

People had plenty to say

By PAT SAFFORD

IT WAS citizen participation with a capital "P" last Thursday night as more than 100 residents showed up at San Tomas School to tell city officials how they felt. And they had plenty to say.

More than 40 individuals spoke up, some more than once, to voice concern over street hazards, the need for a neighborhood center, sidewalks, open space and that a water truck, parked for more than a year in a nearby shopping center parking lot, be removed.

One man also complained that a new sidewalk installed at the corner of Harriet and Hacienda has the guy-wire for the telephone pole directly in the middle of the walkway.

Another said the "dead end" sign on his street had been knocked down 26 years ago and never replaced.

The idea behing the meeting was to get ideas on how the city should spend the $1.4 million it will receive in federal housing and community development (HCD) funds in the next three years. There was no shortage of ideas.

Labeling the portion of San Tomas Aquino road, between Crockett and Hazel avenues, "suicide curve," one man called for widening that road and providing a place for pedestrians to walk. A show of hands later showed more than 90 percent of the audience agreed with him.

ANOTHER MAN, who lives in the unincorporated area, said Van Deusen lane hasn't been paved in the 25 years he's lived there.

Others told the city it was creating a traffic problem by allowing condominiums and other new residential developments along Pollard at Burrows road.

A woman, citing the Hazards along San Tomas Aquino, complained that the water district has not installed the landscaping as planned three years ago. She suggested they install a sidewalk on part of their right of way, cutting down on the number of plants and trees required.

Bob Turk, principal of Rolling Hills Junior High School, was at the meeting with two student representatives.

"I can't express our frustration in trying to work with five municipalities in getting Pollard road improved," he told the audience adding, "Campbell has been fantastic."

The hazard for youngsters walking along Pollard is a big concern, Turk added. "And the railroad tracks scare me to death." He noted there is only a small asphalt path along that stretch of road for children to walk.

"WE'VE HAD several students hit," he said. "Usually one every three years. But there were two hurt on Quito road last year and already two hit this year (on Pollard)."

Turk also expressed concern over the proposed route for the West Valley freeway behind the school, where, he said, there is a large amount of drug trafficking. The weed lined fields are also a hang-out for sex offenders, he said, citing a rape which occurred there two years ago.

"I think Pollard road is the most dangerous road in this county for school kids," one man added. "I think that should be our number one priority." A majority of the audience agreed.

A young woman, who said she has lived in the area a year, said Hacienda avenue is also unsafe for children walking to school and advocated lowering the speed limit.

Sharon Walton, representing a group of people known as Community Center Advocates, distributed a questionnaire to the audience asking for their opinion of maintaining San Tomas School as a community center when it is closed by the district next fall.

CITING THE present uses of the school grounds for baseball, soccer and the Boy and Girl Scouts, she said her group wants to preserve the facility for public use.

Picking plums in downtown Campbell last week were Margaret Fraker and chamber of commerce executive Ted Rogers. Flowering plums don't ordinarily bear fruit since the male and female of the species aren't mixed for street tree plantings. But the donated street trees obviously have some of each sex represented. The small, inedible fruit have been cluttering up the sidewalks along downtown Campbell avenue in recent weeks and have been walked onto the chamber carpeting on the feet of visitors. The remedy? Hold a plum picking.

New group offers help

Agoraphobia: Looking for a safe place

By PAT SAFFORD

TO HER FAMILY Connie had become a burden. She always had some excuse why she couldn't go with her husband to dinner with the boss and his wife. She'd given up driving after a close call two years ago so she couldn't drive her children to their games and lessons and lately she didn't even manage to do the grocery shopping because she always seemed to be ill.

But Connie isn't faking and she isn't making a bid for attention or sympathy from her family.

The young mother is one of an estimated 300,000 agoraphobics in this country who are prisoners of their own fear.

The strict translation of agoraphobia is "a fear of open spaces," but within that definition are many maladies which range from a fear of leaving one's city or state to the most crippling, fear of leaving the house . . . or even the bedroom.

And many, if not most, agoraphobics and their families don't have any idea what's wrong. Phobics think they are going crazy or, during a panic attack, feel that they're dying. Neither is true.

THE ONSET of the most common phobia, agoraphobia, is with a sudden panic attack. Symptoms can include a pounding heart, dizziness or fainting, palpitations, sweating and a sense that something terrible is about to happen. Other symptoms are vision problems and an overpowering terror.

Sufferers usually associate the attack with the place where it occurred and, quite naturally, try to avoid such places in the future to prevent another attack. With future episodes, phobics restrict their activities even further until, for some, the only place they feel safe is in their own home.

A new self-help group of agoraphobics, known as the Go Group, has been meeting at Castro Junior High School weekly for the last two months. Their goal is contained in their name: to help agoraphobics go. Go to the store. Go driving on the freeway or even just go to the end of the block.

Three members of that group discussed their ideas and experiences recently.

"I feel I've always been an adult . . . never allowed to be a child," explained Bobbi. "And the child is the best part of an adult, mischievous. The cure, I think, is to let our child out. To realize it's okay to feel the joy of happiness."

FOR BOBBI that first attack came during a teacher's conference. "I ran from the room and to the office and passed out," she said. "From then on the problem got progressively worse." That first panic attack was 18 years ago and Bobbi, a former teacher, counselor and business owner, eventually became completely housebound.

"I never told anyone about it until a year ago," she added. "And even now it's hard for me to explain and hard to accept that I have it."

"I couldn't drive to the corner without a serious anxiety attack," said Marion. "I couldn't even walk to the mailbox or more than two houses away." Like many agoraphobics Marion talked to her physician about the problem and he prescribed tranquilizers.

"I got hooked on medicine," she explained. "After a couple of trips to the hospital (for an overdose of drugs) I finally woke up one day and found out I was not crazy. I looked around and nobody there was like me."

Marion says she hid her problem from her family (they thought I had a drug problem) and progressed to the point where she couldn't even walk outside to hang the clothes on the line.

AGORAPHOBICS are expert at keeping the real problem from their family and friends, all three agreed.

"I always had some excuse for not going somewhere," Bobbi said laughing, "and I had the flu so often . . ." Observers usually are not aware that someone is having a panic or anxiety attack, even if they're sitting nearby. Agoraphobics are usually very well controlled and find logical sounding explanations for their limited lifestyle.

"You lie to protect yourself from the world and from embarrassment," Jean explained. "You feel shame because it just doesn't make sense."

"And we're people pleasers," Bobbi explained. "We're the St. Bernards of the world and will go to any length to keep people from knowing we're suffering."

All members of the group eventually sought help from someone who understood the problem. Most have been through what is called Terrap (Territorial Apprehension) training and all are interested in getting back out into the world.

In addition to the weekly meetings where members discuss their problems and give each other support, the group has a weekly "driving group" which helps members meet and overcome specific fears.

For some it's driving again, for some going to a department store and for others, just being able to travel as a passenger three blocks from home.

"I CAN RIDE IN a car now," declared Marion. "Now I'm working on getting rid of the exits."

To an agoraphobic an "exit" is some device that helps them feel like they are in control of their situation. It might be sitting at the seat nearest the door at a gathering, giving themselves permission to leave if they are uncomfortable or simply staying out of the left turn lanes.

"I can't make left hand turns," Bobbi explained, "and about 75 percent of the group can't either." The problem is that there is no place to go if the wait should become unbearably long. And agoraphobics are from the "what if" school of worriers.

There is more than one method of overcoming the phobia. Some desensitize themselves a step at a time while others prefer to "guts it out." Marion tried the first approach when she was planning a trip this year.

"I planned it months ahead of time. First, I'd drive to the airport. Then drive into the parking lot and finally walk into the building. Then I practiced sitting in the waiting room. Finally, I got on that airplane and took off."

One inventive woman, realizing she had to stay busy to ward off her panic, talked the stewardess into letting her do some work.

"THEY LET HER wash all the windows in the airplane," Bobbi laughed, "and then let her help serve the food." Others, not as inventive or as assertive wouldn't have been able to solve their problem this way, she added.

Another member of the group uses the "gutsing it out" approach each week.

"I have them drive me to the center of Leigh High School and drop me off," she explained. "I sweat it out."

Agoraphobia is sometimes called the "Calamity syndrome" since it often appears after a severe shock such as a death in the family, divorce or change of lifestyle (good or bad). And sufferers, usually women between the ages of 23 to 36, have often had rigid, religious upbringing, are perfectionists with above average intelligence and vivid imaginations.

But the exceptions prove the rule and agoraphobics in treatment have ranged from 6 years to 60 and men can be affected too. Men, however, because of cultural pressures to hide their fears, usually keep it hidden completely.

"We know of one man, a school principal, that handles his problem by having his mother drive him to school each morning and pick him up each afternoon," Jean commented.

One of the first things sufferers are told when they finally come for help is to tell their family and friends. It's important that those closest to a phobic understand the problem. For two of the women that advice was helpful but for Jean it didn't turn out too well.

"MY TEENAGE SON'S reaction was surprising," she explained. "I expected him to scoff but he didn't. Instead, he wants me to talk to a group of his friends about agoraphobia." Her teenage daughter, who she thought would be understanding, was another story.

"It was like she didn't hear me . . . didn't want to understand. I also told my neighbor and she just put me down with 'Are you going to go crazy if you go up in an elevator?' I decided right then and there I'd told enough people."

At Go Group meetings they have what is called the Roaring Lion Award for those who have tried something new. It might be their first time on the freeway, in a store or driving a car. Those awards are important to members because they all understand how difficult the awards are to earn.

"If I told someone else I made a left hand turn today they'd say, 'So what?'," Bobbi commented. "The group understands."

The group also understands that agoraphobia, unlike other more common fears, is something that has to be overcome or conquered if the individual is to live a full life.

"After all," Bobbi declared, "I have a fear of snakes but I don't have to get on my snake and go to work every day."

Public safety prime concern / More than 100 show up for HCD hearing

When she asked for a show of support for that plan more than 80 percent of the audience raised their hands.

A teenager, speaking in favor of saving the school for a recreation center, siad "you get firecrackers in your face" if you visit John D. Morgan Park on July 4th. "We can't have any fun there anymore," she added. "And at San Tomas Park the cops are there all the time busting people for being drunk."

John Brown told the audience they should take their arguments about saving San Tomas School to Campbell elementary trustees, who will be making the decision.

"YOU PEOPLE should go to the school board meeting and lay down the law," he declared. Brown, calling himself an "old retired carpenter," also said he feels that Rolling Hills School is one of the most dangerous school buildings in the county as far as earthquake safety.

A young woman said if San Tomas is maintained, it should include a child care center.

"There's no place for the children to play now," she added.

Another man, citing problems with the storm drains near his house, said that problem should be fixed first or "we won't have to worry about the school . . . it will float away."

Flooding on Crockett avenue and Hacienda, during heavy rains, were other concerns mentioned.

The lack of after school sports was the concern of Rolling Hills students, according to one representative, along with traffic hazards on Pollard.

One woman, representing a county housing group, said there is a need for low and moderate income housing for families and asked the city to consider land banking for future development. The response from the audience was less than enthusiastic.

One woman countered that residents of that area have seen enough of low income housing with the San Tomas Garden Apartments. She cited vandalism caused by residents of those apartments.

AN ELDERLY man, noting the increase of new developments in the San Tomas area, called for fixing up existing dwellings instead of building new ones. His feelings were echoed by others in the audience.

The city housing rehabilitation program was recently expanded to include the San Tomas area, so that concern is already being met.

On November 13, the city council is scheduled to rule on which projects will get future HCD funding.

They'll have plenty to pick from.

A gift of life by Campbell kids

Campbell Union High School District students who have contributed more than 200 gallons of blood to the local Red Cross in the past four years are planning new blood drives to aid the lifesaving program.

Campbell High School students held a blood drive after school on Wednesday, October 25. The drive is a first for Campbell High and also a first in the district this school year.

Students who are 18 years old can sign up on their own; 17-year-olds can donate blood if they have parental consent. Rolling up their sleeves to swell the school's donations are school personnel and residents in the high school area.

Camden High School students challenged Del Mar students for the first district school blood drive in November, 1975. That competition ended in a tie with each school donating 75 pints.

The blood drives involve the whole school in the community service project. In addition to those who donate blood are the volunteers who sign up donors, file records of donations, assist the nurses who come with the Red Cross bloodmobile, and serve fruit juice and cookies to donors.

Posters not scribbling on wall

By RONDA COLLIER

In years past, a typical first day of school scene at Westmont High School would be walls painted with dirty words and angry janitors repainting the quad stage. This year, however, a group of senior girls expressed their spirit, without vandalism — by painting posters.

On the night of September 10, between 11:00 p.m. and 1:15 a.m., approximately 50 posters were hung from the fence along Westmont Avenue and the backstops to the bowl. The witty sayings ranged from "The girls of '79 are mighty fine" to "Freshmen Lookout."

The girls bought 1,100 feet of butcher paper and over 20 cans of paint, then got to work painting.

We really had a lot of fun painting and were almost anxious for the first day of school to come so we could hang the posters and tell everyone how great the class of '79 is, said one of the girls.

The Press endorses...

'Yes' on Prop. 5

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that California's initiative process has become the only instrument by which the will of the people can be done in the face of an unresponsive legislature. That is the case again regarding the anti-smoking initiative, Prop. 5.

Government has the power, and the duty, to protect its citizens from health hazards, whether it is from manufacturers or farmers who dump toxic chemicals into the public water supply, or from the boors who blow smoke in the faces of persons with allergies.

The well-financed campaign against Prop. 5 maintains it is the civil right to smokers to make others suffer. We think not, and support a "yes" vote on Prop. 5.

'No' on Prop. 6

UNDER THE guise of safeguarding the imperiled American family, State Senator John V. Briggs would launch a witch hunt in our school districts if voters approve Prop. 6, the homosexual conduct initiative.

Our vast state bureaucracy contains more than enough laws to deal with teachers who act in an immoral or unprofessional manner. But besides being unnecessary, the initiative is so vague it would allow harassment of any teacher whom a school board thought was "encouraging" or "promoting" homosexuality — regardless of the teacher's sexual preference.

The list of opponents of Prop. 6 reads like a "Who's Who" of California's teacher groups, distinguished educators, churches, and professional associations.

Prop. 6 supporters, preying on fear, would have us believe that unless we act soon, our schools will be full of homosexual teachers seducing our youngsters into a life of perversion.

This brand of irrationality we don't need — vote NO on Prop. 6.

Carlson for assessor

AL CARLSON is clearly the best-qualified candidate for the county assessor's post. Our only question has been whether he is independent enough to rise above the sad history of that office.

For more than half a century, the assessor's office in Santa Clara County has been controlled by a handful of men. During those years, which continue right up to to the present assessor Dwight Mathiesen, the assessor's job was treated like an inherited post instead of an elected public office.

There have been questions about the equitability of assessment practices, too.

Considering all that, can Al Carlson — who has been working in the office as assistant assessor — bring the needed new leadership? We think so and would like to see him get the chance.

We think there are several factors which separate Carlson from those who have served in the post in the past:

First, he didn't inherit the post and then later run for election. He is seeking the assessor's job in a regular election, just as anyone else would.

Second, he's worked hard to gain the trust of citizens since announcing his candidacy. He's knowledgeable about the position and earnestly wants to do the job in a responsive manner.

Third, he's been exposed to a healthy dose of voter skepticism — which we suspect he won't forget if he's elected.

In summary, we'd recommend Al Carlson for assessor. He's experienced yet very able to separate himself from the tradition which has marred the effectiveness of our assessor's office for most of this century.

The propositions

CALIFORNIA VOTERS face another string of ballot measures when they go to the polls Nov. 7. Here are our recommendations on the propositions (Props. 5 and 6 will be treated separately).

Prop. 1, Veterans Bond Act of 1978: As proposed, the state would issue $500 million in general obligation bonds to continue the Veterans Farm and Home Purchase Program. The program has always been self-supporting and costs the taxpayers nothing. YES.

Prop. 2, Public Utilities Commission: The measure would amend the Constitution, deleting the provision authorizing the Public Utilities Commission to assign cases to individual commissioners. It could hamper the PUC procedurally and delay decisions. NO.

Prop. 3, State Surplus Coastal Property: If approved, the legislature could permit sale of state-owned surplus highway land to other state agencies for park, recreation, scenic and wildlife conservation purposes — at a price below market value. It would help preserve coastal lands for public uses. YES.

Prop. 4, Chiropractors, School Accreditation and License Revocation: The measure would amend the "Chiropractic Initiative Act" to set accreditation deadlines, modify the Board of Chiropractic Examiners' disciplinary authority, and allow the board to hire examiners. A grudging YES — the measure would give added protection to consumers, but we object to having to vote on such a trivial procedural matter.

Prop. 7, Murder penalty, initiative statute: The measure would expand the list of crimes subject to the death penalty, change trial procedures, and lengthen prison terms for those convicted of first and second degree murder. State Sen. John V. Briggs sponsored this initiative in an attempt to give California the toughest death-penalty law in the country. However, the state already has a carefully written death penalty law covering more kinds of crime than many other states, and this measure is so carelessly written and contradictory, it may well be held unconstitutional. NO.

Prop. 8, Property taxation: The proposal would change property assessment provisions to allow adjustments for property lost or damaged, and for property reconstructed after a natural disaster. It would be unfair to deny disaster victims the benefits of the Jarvis-Gann assessment rollback, and this measure would ease their tax burden. YES.

Edwards for Congress

WE SUPPORT Don Edwards' re-election to Congress in the 10th District. Edwards is running for his eighth term in Congress and has an excellent reputation for being accessible to his constituents. His efficiently run office is always most willing to pass on information requested by anyone in the district.

Edwards has long been a staunch supporter of equal rights for women, Mexican-Americans and the Farm Workers. A member of the Judiciary Committee, he works tirelessly to ensure civil rights in all areas.

Edwards introduced legislation creating the San Francisco Wildlife Refuge. He has made clear his stand for a right of choice where abortion is concerned. This term he introduced a bill to hold down inflation by rewarding employers and employees with tax benefits.

He deserves another term as this district's Representative.

A look back at Halloween in the 40's

By PAT SAFFORD

I REMEMBER THE days of ghosts and goblins three decades ago when costumes were simple, thrown together creations and kids were able to accept homemade pumpkin cookies or orange popcorn balls from the neighbors without fear.

Back then getting out to trick or treat was 90 percent of the battle.

When the sun was out of sight behind the 60-foot eucalyptus trees behind our house we were ready to go. But our mother felt it was a mark of bad breeding to be the first ones out.

"Wait until we see other kids," she would tell us each year. And every year other parents on the block took that same "not you first" attitude. For the first half hour after dark you could look from our front porch down the hill and see other doors open and costumed kids waiting anxiously for the first trick or treaters.

THAT DEADLOCK lasted until some strong-willed youngster finally persuaded his parents to let him out. To my mother that first caller was unmannered. To us kids, he was a hero.

Once out of the house we made a beeline for the Laine home down the street and waited patiently outside the huge, iron gate for someone to answer the bell. It took awhile for the front gate was a good 100 feet from the stately home that belonged to the owners of a chain of bakeries. But the wait was worth it.

Every year Mr. Laine would come out with a small sack and ask, "I know you, don't I?"

"Oh yes, we're the Wilhites that live right down there," we'd point out. Of course, he didn't remember us from year to year but being a neighbor to the Laines meant getting a quarter.

Another good stop on our forays was Warren's Grocery at the bottom of the hill where the owner would let us pick any 5 cent candy bar in the store for a treat. This tradition continued until the word got around and kids began to come from a mile away or more and put an end to a good thing.

For the courageous a visit to the Keep home nearby meant handfuls of candy. The elderly brother and sister who lived there loved children and delivered boxes of chocolates to the neighborhood kids each Christmas. But on Halloween they waited for the goblins to pay them a visit. Few did.

THEIR HOUSE was nestled in the Oakland hills among a huge grove of eucalyptus trees that swayed giddily every time a wind came up. The groans and rustle of the trees and bushes added to the terror for a child intent on trying to make it to their front door unscathed. We always knew those trees would fall down one day and word was out that Halloween would be the day.

I made at least three attempts to get to that house over the years and never made it.

In those days there were strict rules for trick or treating. You were too old to get goodies when you grew tall enough to look your benefactor straight in the eye. It didn't matter how old you were. For me, that Halloween etiquette was a disaster for I did most of my growing by 11.

That year I got the subtle, and not so subtle, disapproving looks that meant . . . "You're a little old for this aren't you?" My older sister, 5 inches shorter, never had that problem and could have gone out on Halloween until she was 20 without comment.

Today, I think nothing about handing out candy to "kids" wearing beards . . . that aren't fake.

Looking back on those days I'm content that I did more than just take without giving in return. I helped give the world one of its top business minds. Not by design, of course.

EACH YEAR Ron and Carol and I would return with our bag of loot and spread the contents out on the living room rug. Ron, five years older, would then begin his game of "trade." (Carol, older and wiser than I, didn't play).

Within a half hour Ron's pile of candy, gum and cookies would grow half again as big while mine got smaller and smaller. Somehow he could always convince me that his red and blue swirled penny candy was one of a kind and worth at least two Hershey bars.

And those U-No bars and Baby Ruth's were an embarassment to have in my bag. Just to be charitable, and a good brother, he would take them off my hands for a stick of gum. Not the whole pack mind you, just a stick.

Thirty years later Ron has headed some of the largest corporations in this country due, in large part, to his ability to strike a hard bargain.

I'll bet he never told anyone he got his start with my bag of Halloween candy.

DAYLIGHT savings time officially ends this Sunday, October 29 at 2 a.m. To make sure you're on top of the time change remember to set your clocks back one hour before going to bed Saturday night. The Silent Company gave this impression of the time change using the Campbell City Hall clock tower as a prop. That four-sided timepiece, powered by four separate motors, gives four different times . . . give or take five minutes.

Seven month survey completed

Local history is in the wood, stucco and rooftops of Campbell buildings and homes

By VICKI JOHNSEN

AMIDST THE town of Campbell is a street so full of architectural history it is like recapturing the past just to drive down it.

Alice avenue, located between Winchester blvd. and S. First st., is occupied by 36 homes, the first built in 1917, the last in 1975.

The fact that Alice ave. and many other Campbell streets hold so much architectural history was discovered through a seven month-long survey compiled by Tom King, city historical analyst.

King was asked to direct a survey after Jeanette Watson, curator of the Campbell museum urged Campbell councilmen to initiate a project that would answer many questions about Campbell's past.

"The survey really started in the museum," Watson said. "I was asked so many questions about homes and families I didn't know and didn't have records of. I realized the city should have a housing survey done that would answer questions, aid in protecting the old buildings, teach people, and be not of only assistance to us in the museum, but to the whole city for future planning."

King was hired by the city to conduct the survey after working on a similar study for the City of San Jose. His salary is paid by federal CETA funds.

Organizing the survey was the biggest step, according to King. "I had a six month contract to do it in which wasn't much time."

Besides mapping out boundaries and important historical areas in the city, already known, King said a lot of his time was spent driving around.

"I would drive up and down streets looking for older homes or buildings, go up to the front door and ask about the house," he said.

Watson noted the survey concentrated upon homes 40 years or older or very new, unique archtectural buildings in the city.

King explained that everyone he talked to was helpful in telling all they knew.

"Some people were the original owners and in their 90's," King said. "It is so important that the survey was taken when it was because these old timers may not be around in a few years to tell their stories and then no one might ever know."

Besides writing down all the information told to him about the homes (original family, year built, builder,) King took pictures of every structure listed in the survey.

"Some day these houses will not be around to see," he said, "but the pictures always will and, therefore, so will the history."

King included he has noticed two homes mentioned in the survey already have been razed or moved.

Watson said the homes with the most data collected were the Ainsley home, N. Second st.; the old Farley Building (formerly the Bank of Campbell), corner of Central and Campbell ave.; the James Henry Campbell home, S. Second St.; and the Morton house, Union and Campbell ave. and homes on Alice avenue.

The reason why Alice is so unique, King reported, is because that it is one street that developed through the history of Campbell.

"Various architects have called it a 'little Americana' because it contains so many different types of dwellings and because each of those dwellings represent a period," Watson said.

King continued that a variety of families have lived on Alice, every nationality, every type of profession.

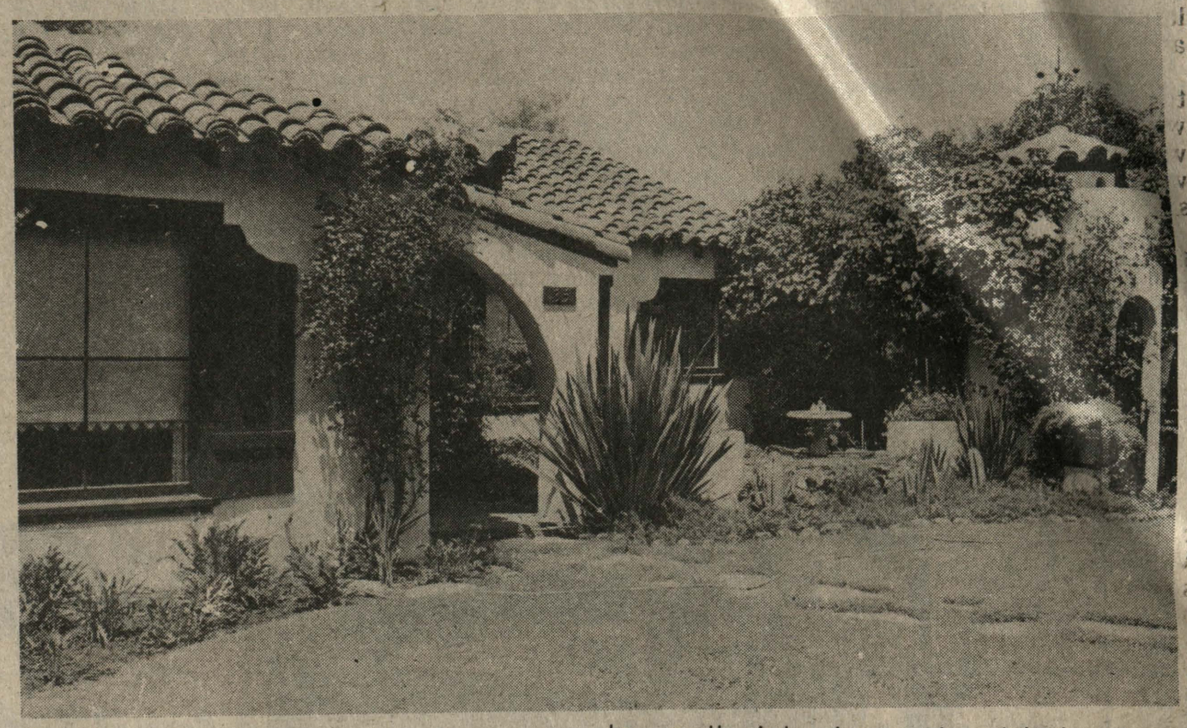
He called his survey an "amateur one," which worked because so many volunteers donated time. "We had people from all over working on it," King said, "doctors, students, and residents just interested in history."

Besides talking with the residents of the homes, information on them was gathered from old maps and old newspapers on microfilm in the Campbell Library.

"We only recorded things verified by two independent sources," King said. "When it was verified by two, we were pretty sure it was fact."

Campbell is just one of many cities that has been surveyed recently. Watson noted San Jose, Pasadena, San Francisco, Mountain View, Santa Cruz, and Sacramento have all had extensive surveys compiled.

"The best thing about the survey," Watson said, "is that it stimulates people to think about history; it familiarizes them with the spirit of Campbell . . . which goes a long way back."



EVERY architectural style from Spanish to colonial is evident along Alice avenue, one of the most interesting streets studied in the recent historic survey carried out by the City of Campbell. Along with information on the early owners of the older or distinctive homes, the interviewers also picked up interesting stories from Campbell's past which will be included in the oral history project now underway.

ALICE avenue, a quiet, tree-lined street near downtown Campbell, has managed to retain its character over the years. Most homes are well-kept and residents historically form a united front to "fight City Hall" when items of concern arise. When street sweeping services were cutback last year for instance Alice avenue residents spearheaded an impressive petition drive and filled the Council Chamber and hallways to overflowing with people asking that the service be restored. It was.

Restaurant with a Past!!

Here's the story about the restaurant world's own "shady lady" — now a historical site — THE VAN'S — In 1915 the Pan American Exposition was held in San Francisco's Marina District, commemorating the opening of the Panama Canal — this bldg. was part of the Japanese Exhibit & is the only other structure besides the Palace of Fine Arts that still remains. Purchased in 1918 by E.D. Swift & barged down the bay to its present location in the Belmont Hills (scintillating view) overlooking the Bay Area. In 1923, it was purchased by Elsie Smuck & named ELSIE'S where she bootlegged whiskey until 1931. When prohibition was repealed it became a legalized saloon. However, the reputation of the bldg. was questionable due to the activities of the upstairs bedrooms. During the early 1940's there were rumors of gambling on the premises. Les Cassasa turned it into an Italian Restaurant in 1945 & Gene Soule & Ivan Sawyer became partners in 1947, forming the name "GEVANS," building up an excellent reputation with good food & spirits. After Geno Ivan parted in 1957, the name changed to THE VAN'S (about the time I enjoyed my first dinner date in California) . . . present hosts, Loring DeMartini & Ron Rosenberg purchased THE VAN'S from Ivan in 1973 & continues to serve the same fine cuisine & has retained the very same decor, just as it was when pulled up the hill in 1918. Whether for historical purposes or a memorable dining experience, a visit to THE VAN'S is a must!

Saturday, the 14th, I was privileged to be a guest at the Annual Palo Alto Elk's Club Fashion Show, where I was asked to autograph copies of my annual "DINING AFFAIRS," & was also fortunate to be seated next to the special guest commentators, ANN FRASER & ROSS McGOWAN who host the "Morning Show" on KPIX Ch. 5 daily at 9:30 a.m. Her charm & vivacious presentation was highlighted by Ross' sparkling personality & sense of humor. A big bouquet also to ANNA MARIE WALSH, Chairman, whose tireless efforts & planning resulted in a very successful show & luncheon — & to all the ladies who assisted with tireless devotion. All proceeds went to the Elk's major project, Cerebral Palsy.

Dining Tips: SEBASTIAN'S, set high up on the 17th floor in The PruneYard, has been the scene of many romantic 1st dates that resulted in marriage (or at least togetherness) — fine Continental cuisine, excellent service by tuxedoes waiters, & that out-of-this-world view, combine to make this an exciting dining "affair" . . . One of the 24 "Sunset Dinner" specialties (only $4.45) at ANGELO'S is Chicken Feta (chicken breast filled with feta cheese & herbs) Scrumptuous! . . . IMPERIAL GARDEN'S recently served beautiful JOAN BAEZ a taste-tempting dinner — she & her party loved the great Hunan, Szechuan, Cantonese cuisine & gorgeous decor . . . The PADDLES Restaurant in Village Corner Shop. Ctr. uses wooden paddles for menus & serve a "Paddle" Kabob of Beef, Chicken, Pork, Shrimp . . . The ECHO presents "MARY LOU & PAUL" in their attractive lounge for listening & dancing — lotsa talent! . . . Remember Paolo's in The PruneYard? This is now PELLINORES, open for lunch & dinner & serving delightful Continental cuisine Mon. thru Sun . . . Last week I recommended calling Freddie MADDALENA in Palo Alto for reservations either to his attractive dining room or the upstairs private "Dinner for Two" room — my apologies for misspelling MADDALENA'S. Did you try it? Tell me about it!

A different kind of club to preserve Elvis' memory

BENEATH the autographed portrait she considers to be her most prized posssion, Carolyn Slayton, 178 Wedgewood Ave., Los Gatos, explained her reason for organizing a different kind of Elvis Presley fan club.

Unlike those that promote photo, T-shirt and poster sales, Elvis Fans Helping Out works to aid charity.

"Elvis Presley was very poor as a child", Slayton said, "so in his later years, when he had enough money, he became a charity-minded person. Since he was such a giving man, we decided to continue the giving in his name."

Slayton noted that the club's main objective is aiding the Santa Clara County Children's Center. Money is collected through bake sales and the selling of donated Elvis jewelry and magazines.

Over 20 people belong to the group, which is just over a year old. Slayton acts as president; Bill Schmidt, vice president; Katherine Schmidt, secretary, and Barbara Ratliff, treasurer.

Most of the members, Slayton related, were members of other Elvis fan clubs when the performer was alive. She, herself, belonged to the Elvis Now Society.

ELVIS FANS HELPING OUT are currently planning a special fan festival to be held next January 6, two days before the anniversary of the star's birth.

According to Slayton the "Fan Fair" will provide entertainment of professional and amateur Elvis impersonators, as well as look alike-sound alike contests.

Presently, the club is conducting a membership drive. "Members may be any age," Slayton said, "and be willing to help raise money to help others."

All interested persons may phone the club at 866-0138.

HELPING KEEP alive the memory of Elvis Presley is Carolyn Slayton, a Campbell area resident, who heads an organization which helps local charities in the name of the late performer. Elvis Fans Helping Out is based at Slayton's Wedgewood avenue home where one room is dominated by photos and articles about the entertainer.

Did The Assessors Office Plan To Increase Your Property Taxes By 26%?

YOU'D BETTER BELIEVE IT!

A BUSINESS-LIKE APPROACH
... NOT A BUREAUCRATIC ANSWER

• A business-like approach to handling assessments would have been to listen to the customers — the voters in this case — when they spoke in the Proposition 13 vote. BUT NO, the Assessor's office decided to use their experts to find a tax increase loophole. So they announced in screaming newspaper headlines on June 10, 1978, that everybody's assessments and taxes would be increased 26% over the minimum specified by Proposition 13. This bureaucratic decision was contrary to the peoples' expressed desire.

BUREAUCRATIC THINKING
ALLOWS NO OPPOSITION

• Thinking in the Assessor's office has been hardened by bureaucracy being in power over 63 years. For over six decades each retiring Assessor endorsed and arranged to elect a favored office employee to continue the same practices. The present assessor is doing everything possible to name his successor. They collected $11,885.23 of special interest money from July 1 to Sept. 23. alone, and more is coming! Ernie Konnyu depends on the people for donations

TAX AND TAX ... SPEND AND SPEND

• On spending tax dollars the Assessor's office is hard to beat. This year's Assessor's office budget is over 4½ times what it was in 1967 — an increase of 450% in only 11 years! That's much higher than inflation or wage growth! This kind of wasteful spending must stop.

THE TAXPAYERS NEED
BUSINESSMAN ERNIE KONNYU ...

• Ernie Konnyu is Director of Business Audits for one of America's largest electronic firms, and as such is an expert in eliminating inefficiency and waste and cutting the fat from budgets. Taxpayers desperately need this qualified business expertise applied to their own assessments.

2.06.030 Agenda.

All written petitions, communications, and matters to be submitted for the consideration of the Council at a regular (or adjourned regular) meeting shall be presented to and filed with the City Clerk of the City of Campbell prior to 5 p.m. on the Monday preceding the Council meeting at which said item is to be considered. Urgent or emergency matters, initiated by the administrative staff, and which do not appear on the Council agenda, may be considered by the Council at any regular or adjourned regular meeting only upon the recommendation of the City Manager and with the approval of the presiding officer. Urgent or emergency matters, initiated by a member of the City Council, which do not appear on the Council agenda, may be considered by the Council at any regular or adjourned regular meeting. If possible, such items shall be submitted in writing to the City Clerk at or before the meeting, and if not, then as soon as possible thereafter.

2.06.040 Consent Calendar.

From time to time, the Council has deemed it expedient and appropriate to review the conduct of its meetings in light of growing city population and the numerous matters that are presented to the Council for action. It is in the public interest that the Council devote as much time and consideration as possible to those items of policy which require Council attention and that it delegate to the city staff matters of administration.

Many matters regularly coming before the Council require formal action but are non-controversial in nature and can be disposed of in an expeditious and proper manner. Prepared agenda which have been reviewed by the staff, delivered to the Council for study and which are then made available to the public at Council meetings, shall have grouped together for action at the beginning of the meeting those matters which are considered to be non-controversial and to require only routine action by the Council. The staff recommendations on action to be taken shall be indicated in a concise and summary report form. These matters shall be listed under what is to be known as the "Consent Calendar." Adoption of the Consent Calendar may be made by one motion only by the Council, provided, however, that the presiding officer should first advise the audience that the Consent Calendar matters will be adopted in total by one action of the Council unless any Council member or any individual or organization interested in one or more Consent Calendar matters has any questions or wishes to make a statement. In that event, the presiding officer may defer action on the particular matter or matters and place same on the regular agenda for consideration immediately following the acceptance of the Consent Calendar.

2.06.050 Content of Consent Calendar.

The Consent Calendar shall include, but not be limited to, the following matters:

1. Setting dates of public hearings; 2. Acceptance of improvements; 3. Release of bonds and filing of notices of completion; 4. Transfer of funds within an approved departmental budget; 5. Personnel actions within approved budgetary limits and prior authorizations; 6. Accepting donations; 7. Installation of traffic signs; 8. Claims against the City; 9. Approval of agreements; 10. Withdrawing annexations from special districts.

2.06.060 Order of Business.

All meetings of the Council shall be open to the public except as provided by law. At an hour set by ordinance on the day of each regular meeting, the Council members, City Manager, City Clerk and City Attorney and such department heads or other staff members as have been requested to be present, shall take their regular stations in the Council Chambers, and the business of the Council shall be taken up for consideration and disposition in substantially the following order, except as may be otherwise ordered by the presiding officer or Council:

1. Call to Order; 2. Pledge of Allegiance; 3. Roll Call; 4. Approval of Minutes; 5. Special Presentations; 6. Communications and Petitions; 7. Consent Calendar; 8. Public Hearings and Introduction of Ordinances; 9. Advisory Commissions and Committees; 10. Oral Requests; 11. Appeals; 12. Bids; 13. City Council-Committee Reports — New Items; 14. Ordinances for Final Adoption; 15. Deferred Items; 16. Staff Reports; 17. Items for Distribution — Information Only; 18. Approval of Claims; 19. Adjournment.

Any member of the Council may propose any matter at a regular or adjourned regular meeting on his/her own motion, under the agenda item entitled "City Council-Committee Reports — New Items," but complicated items should be submitted in writing to the City Clerk prior to 5 p.m. of the Tuesday preceding the meeting. Any resident or taxpayer of the City, or his/her authorized legal representative, or any legally interested or aggrieved party, or any other person with the permission of the presiding officer, may address the Council under oral requests on any matter concerning the City's business, or any matter over which the Council has control.

2.06.70 Reading of Minutes.

Unless the reading of the minutes of a Council meeting is requested by a Council member, such minutes may be approved without reading if the City Clerk has previously furnished each member with a copy.

2.06.080 Preparation of Minutes.

The minutes of the Council shall be kept by the City Clerk and shall be maintained in a Minute Book provided for that purpose, with a record of each particular type of business transacted set off in paragraphs with proper sub-heads; and said written minutes shall become the official records of the City of Campbell provided that the City Clerk shall be required to make a record only of such business as was actually passed upon by a vote of the Council, and shall not be required to record any remarks of Council members or of any other person except at the special request of a Council member; provided further that a record shall be made of the names and addresses of persons addressing the Council, the title of the subject matter to which their remarks are related and whether they spoke in support of or in opposition to such matter. As soon as possible after each Council meeting, the City Clerk shall cause a copy of the minutes thereof to be forwarded to each Council member, the City Manager and department heads and other individuals designated by the City Clerk or City Manager, and shall post a copy of said minutes on the City Hall Bulletin Board.

2.06.090 Presiding Officer.

The presiding officer of the City Council shall be the Mayor, and in the Mayor's absence the Vice-Mayor. In the absence of the Mayor and designated Vice-Mayor, the City Clerk shall call the Council meeting to order, whereupon a temporary Mayor Pro Tempore shall be elected by the members of the Council present. Upon the arrival of the Mayor or the Vice-Mayor, the temporary Mayor Pro Tempore shall immediately relinquish the Chair upon the conclusion of the matter of business then before the Council.

2.06.100 Conduct of Business.

At the time fixed for public hearings or when any subject or question is presented to the Council, and before any motion is made with reference thereto, the presiding officer shall inquire if there are any persons present who desire to speak upon the subject. Any such person may then be permitted to speak, upon stating his/her name and address to the Clerk, and upon addressing the Honorable Mayor and members of the City Council. All remarks shall be addressed to the Council as a body and not to any member thereof, except with the permission of the presiding officer. Members of the Council desiring to address another member of the Council, or a member of the public, shall only do so upon recognition by the Chair. Discussion of a subject may be limited by the presiding officer to a reasonable time, for the expedience of Council business.

2.06.110 Public Hearings.

Public hearings shall be declared open by the Mayor at the time fixed therefor in the notice. Public hearings shall be closed by the Mayor after all interested persons, or their authorized representatives, present at the hearing, have been heard on the subject.

2.06.120 Consideration and Debate of Matters by Council.

After a public hearing has been closed, or if the matter for consideration is not the subject of a public hearing and all interested persons desiring to speak on the matter have been heard, the Council may debate the matter. During such time no member of the audience may speak on the subject, except upon the request of a member of the Council through the presiding officer. During such debate a member of the Council desiring to speak or to address another member of the Council shall address the Chair, and upon recognition by the Chair may speak or address other members of the Council, but shall confine discussion to the question under debate.

2.06.130 Ordinances, Resolutions, Motions and Contracts.

Preparation of Ordinances: All ordinances shall be prepared by the City Attorney. No ordinance shall be prepared for presentation to the Council unless ordered by a majority vote of the Council, or requested in writing by the City Manager, or prepared by the City Attorney on his/her initiative.

Approval by Administrative Staff: All ordinances, resolutions and contract documents shall, before presentation to the Council, be approved as to form and legality by the City Attorney or his/her authorized representative, and shall have been examined and approved for administration by the City Manager or the Manager's authorized representative, where there are substantive matters of administration involved.

Introducing for Passage or Approval: Ordinances, resolutions and other matters or subjects requiring action by the Council must be introduced and sponsored by a member of the Council by motion, duly made and seconded. Upon the making of a motion, no debate thereon shall be permitted until duly seconded, and until the motion has been restated by the presiding officer. After the vote has been called, there shall be no further discussion or debate, except that members of the Council may be permitted by the presiding officer to explain their votes.

2.06.140 Voting.

A member of the City Council may abstain on any vote upon stating the reason for the abstention.

2.06.150 Committees of the Council.

A quorum of the Council may resolve itself into a committee of the whole, or other designated committee, at any time by the affirmative vote of a majority of the members present. The presiding officer of the Council shall preside as Chairman of such committee. All actions of such committee shall be reported to any Council member not present at the time of said meeting. All special committees shall be appointed by the presiding officer, unless otherwise directed by the Council.

2.06.160 Decorum.

While the Council is in session, all persons shall preserve order and decorum. Any person making personal, impertinent or slanderous remarks, or who shall become boisterous while addressing the Council, shall be forthwith, by the presiding officer, barred from further audience before the Council, unless permission to continue be granted by a majority vote of the Council. Any person who is so disorderly or who so persistently disrupts the business meeting so as to interfere with the proper conduct of the business may be ordered removed from the meeting place.

2.06.170 Enforcement of Decorum.

The Chief of Police, or such member or members of the Police Department of the City of Campbell as Chief may designate, shall be Sergeant-at-Arms of the Council meeting. The Sergeant-at-Arms shall carry out all orders and all instructions of the presiding officer for the purpose of maintaining order and decorum at the Council meetings.

2.06.180 Duties of Presiding Officer.

The presiding officer shall preserve strict order and decorum at all meetings of the Council. The presiding officer shall state every question coming before the Council, announce the decision of the Council on all subjects, and decide all questions of order; subject, however, to an appeal to the Council, in which event a majority vote of the Council shall govern and conclusively determine such question of order. The presiding officer's name shall be called last on any question in voting.

2.06.190 Study Sessions.

From time to time the Council will meet in a study session at a time and place to be designated by the Mayor and City Council. Such study sessions will be open to the public and press, as provided by law. Study sessions shall be devoted to matters regarding which the interchange of information preliminary to a regular meeting is deemed to be essential. No official action or formal vote shall be taken at such study session on any matter under discussion. Council members in attendance shall be entitled to express their opinions on any matter under discussion.

Eighteen Campbell high school district seniors have been named semi-finalists in the national merit scholarship competition. Their selection places them in the top one-half of one percent of the nation's most able high school students.

The nominations are based on results of scholastic ability tests taken last year by more than one million students from 17,000 United States high schools. From this number 15,000 students were named semi-finalists.

Finalists will be chosen early next year to vie for 4,100 scholarships which will be awarded by the national scholarship federation. The scholarships range from a single grant of $1,000 to full four-year university scholarships.

The Campbell district semi-finalists include: From Campbell High School — Alyce Hanusch; Del Mar — David Forsythe, Brian Gorman, Burton Peretti; Blackford — Jonathan Hammar; Westmont — Jay Rosenheim, Cathy Winter: Prospect — Judith Brown, Stuart McCannon; Branham — Paul Thompson; Leigh — Carol Cheserek, Harry Freeman, Karen Gundy, Steven Henry, Thomas Hill, Steven Homer, Nandu Pichai, and Rosemarie Wittry.

In addition to the 18 semi-finalists, 24 additional students have been sent letters of commendation as runners-up in the national competition.

The district students who rated in the upper two percent of the nation's best high school scholars are: From Del Mar — Mike Hokanson, Margo Miller, Steven Silver, Eric Stoll, Martin Yee, Marcus Bass; Westmont — Robert Callaway, John Cary, Ralph Foster, Robert Lacey, Barry Upshaw; Prospect — Margaret Finch, Lisa Harrolle, Barbara Taylor; Branham — Richard Kelly, Joan Machida, Joe Mumford; Leigh — Joe Bailey, Julie Cavallaro, Shelly Davis, Andy Durkovic, Lauri Eckert, Cathy Leone, and Sue Taylor.

PREVIEWING some of the outfits to be shown at the "Fall Fantasy" fashion show of the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church of Campbell are, from left, Lorraine Gerin, owner of Saratoga Originals whose fashions will be featured; Marilyn Gadway, show chairman, and Bobbi Sheets, fashion coordinator. The sun. It's hot. But it's not electric.
Some solar technology is already here. If you want to heat your home, your water supply or your swimming pool, you can buy solar units today that will do the job. PG&E is currently involved in more than 80 solar projects to help Californians make better use of these heating systems.
But heat isn't electricity.
Manufacturing electricity from the sun's rays is a lot further off. The technology is not yet developed to convert the sun's energy into electricity in an efficient and affordable way. Meaningful amounts of electricity won't be coming from solar sources before the end of the century.
PG&E is working on such projects. For example, we are partners in building an experimental sunlight-to-electricity plant that will produce small amounts of power by the early 1980's. But the cost of this electricity will be about 30 times as much as that from a new conventional plant.
According to government estimates, even by the end of the century, the sun will provide no more than 10% of our electric needs. In the meantime, we'll need government approvals to build conventional plants to help meet your growing demands.
If you have any questions about Solar Energy, write PG&E, Box 3728, San Francisco, CA 94106.
Until solar electricity is ready, we must build other kinds of power plants. PG and E

My spanking new Subaru "Brat" makes loud banging noises on rare occasions. The noise comes from the rear of the vehicle and has even happened with the Brat in the garage with the engine shut off. It happens only with a full tank of gas and sometimes I can smell gas from the rear of the vehicle.

The dealer thinks I'm crazy and won't even look for the problem. I'm not even sure that it is a problem. Your opinion, please.

Ms. Marcie Cavera, Palo Alto

We examined this vehicle and found a minor crack in the gas tank. Our (Consumers United's) engineers speculated that an over-pressure problem was involved and sure enough, the gas cap failed to vent, creating a high pressure that ruptured the tank. The noise from Ms. Cavera's tank was a popping of the sheet metal due to its expansion against the restraints.

Subaru has promptly recognized this problem and has recalled over 20,000 of these vehicles for inspection and correction. We recommend to owners of the '78 Subaru Brat that the vehicle suspected of leaking gas not be garaged until the problem is corrected. No real point in burning your house down.

I bought a Ward's dryer that on the "low" setting melted some of my polyester and nylon garments. They tried to repair it three times and now it only works on the "low" cycle and I must dry everything twice. The dollar value of the destroyed clothes was $496. The appliance department manager hasn't been too cooperative in helping me resolve the problem. I think I need Consumers United to bail me out.

Mrs. Tom Dreyfuss, San Jose

We investigated this problem also and found that the dryer initially had only one thermal control unit. No matter which button was pushed, the dryer only operated at a temperature that would scald the devil. The repairs left the dryer with only the low temperature heat control and not the dual system for all fabrics.

Ward's has agreed that this is a product liability and will take back the dryer and compensate Mrs. Dreyfuss for the loss of her and her daughter's clothing.

I specified that the parts from my poorly running car be returned to me after the repairs. One of the parts was a cam shaft and I would like to have Consumers United inspect it to determine if it was faulty. The car still runs poorly but I'm out $249, parts and labor.

Donna Almos, Mountain View

The check is on the way. Donna gets her $249 back. The cam shaft was checked by a local Chevy dealer, the Chevrolet factory facility, and Consumers United, and found to be 100% within factory specifications.

Based on this information, the repair shop caved in and refunded Mrs. Almos' money. She had the foresight to request the return of the replaced parts, step one in insuring your rights in the wonderful world of car repairs.

The problem with her car was subsequently diagnosed as worn distributor shaft bushings, a relatively minor repair.

For Oct. 28 through Nov. 3

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Sparks fly and you smoke. Tumult and shouting is followed by uncertain silence. If primative urge nudges, Ari, nudge back.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Don't stay too long at the fair, Taurus. Fun is fun but don't be a fool. Calls messages highlighted. Financial picture comes into focus as new developments occur. Tell chronic complainer to go sit on a rake.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You've been wholesome, sane and sensible for too long Gem. Jazz things up a bit. Read something racy. Tune in a new FM station. Wink at the next person you meet who has gray hair. Week ends on key of C for chance, change and choice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Old dream comes rushing back on winds of memory. Don't let self-pity drain you of energy. Get out, Moonbaby, and circulate. Before week is over, make plans, make calls and make love — though not necessarily in that order.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Drama highlighted and naturally you will have top billing. Play your royal role to the absolute hilt, Leo, and the red-carpet treatment will follow. Challenging week ends with a flourish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your wings are stronger than you think, Virgo, and it's a good thing too, for this week you get personal plans off of the ground. Before week is over you get panoramic view while flying high.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Take one day at a time, Libra, and you muddle through. Contrary to dim view of associate, the sky is not going to fall — not this week, at least. Partner, mate needs a shoulder to lean on, so offer yours. Week ends with a hug.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Think twice before you accept invitation to "go 'round the mulberry bush," Scorp. Change is in the wind as well as in the stars. Newcomer enters picture and Teddy turns to Grizzly as pressures are brought to bear. Tread softly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't permit pushy associate to take advantage of your good nature, Saj. Practice saying "No" in clear, bell-like tones — loud enough to be heard in the last row. Then if yo-yo doesn't lay off, use a bullhorn to get your message across.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Seesaw week ahead, Cap, but ups and downs are part of life so take all in usual stride. Loved one is willing to stick with you through thick and thin — know this and be glad.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Keep options open and wallet closed. Try to see ahead. Concerning your actions, Aquari, consider not only the immediate consequences of the consequences.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): After you've paid the rent, Pisces, take what is left and buy yourself a little treat — and for six bucks it will be precious little indeed. Before week is over Big Chief Rattling Sword makes a lot of racket. Consider the source and ignore.

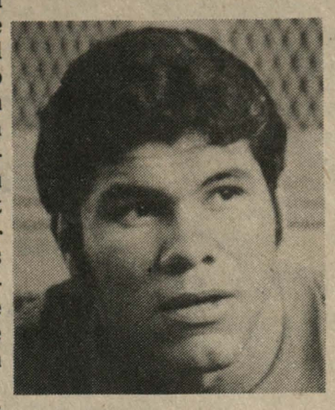
THAT DELICIOUS, bubbly drink, "7-Up," has given us more than just a tickle in our nose — it's also given us the "Un-world!"

That's right, the "Un-Cola" has unveiled a whole new understanding of the unabridged usage of the prefix un.

Inspired by "7-Up's" un-world, here is a list of un-happenings in sports:

UNBEARABLE — I found myself walking to the window of my living room and screaming out to my neighborhood, "I'm as mad as hell and I'm not going to take it anymore!" last week. Then, after composing myself and explaining to my neighbors that it was the volume of my TV set up too high, not me making a fool of myself, I went back to watch the Monday Night Football game.

It's just that doggone Howard Cosell — I just can't take him anymore! He'll spend the first three quarters of a football game ripping a player to bits (like Craig Morton last week), blasting him from every angle, verbally washing up his days in the NFL. And then all it takes is a fourth quarter touchdown pass and he's back in his corner, praising him with "I said at the top of telecast" and "see what I mean, this guy can kill you."



Jim Plunkett

Then the fair-weather hypocrite has the nerve to chuckle and say "the same fans who were booing him earlier in the game now are on his side." He blasts the fans for doing exactly what he'd been doing all night — it's just unbearable.

UNTIMELY — That's all that can describe the defensive lapse of Joe Ferguson of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the sixth game of the World Series against the New York Yankees.

Even though Ferguson, a graduate of Camden high school in San Jose, smacked two doubles in the sixth game, his untimely mental lapse in the third inning led to two Yank runs and an error later in the game led to two more as New York clinched the World Championship with a 7-2 win over LA.

UNCLEAR — There's certainly nothing that's more unclear than the term free agent in baseball. What it means is that a player is free from his contract and free to negotiate with any other team. But for the most part, free agents are anything but free!

UNMERCIFUL — That's the only term that can describe the powerful offense of the Peterson high school football team this fall. The Pirates have been unmerciful in their treatment of opposing defenses, rolling up 244 points in the first five games for an average of 48.8 a game. Peterson's biggest output was a 57 point outburst against Buchser.

UNINTIMIDATED — Even though former Santa Teresa high school star Rich Campbell is just a sophomore at Cal Berkeley this fall, he's certainly not intimidated by the more experienced collegians playing against him.

The quarterback has helped the Golden Bears to wins in four of their first five games and was named the Northern California player of the month for September.

UNTOUCHABLE — What else, but Ron Guidry's slider!

UNFORTUNATE — It's unfortunate what has happened to the talented Jim Plunkett. The NFL quarterback who starred locally as a prepster at James Lick and as a collegian at Stanford, is now just a back-up quarterback for the Oakland Raiders, seeing no playing time whatsoever.

Plunkett is a reserve with the Raiders — but he should be starting for the San Francisco 49ers. Where would the Niners be with Plunkett leading the offense? Look where they are without him!

Warriors crush Cougars

Moore snaps receiving record in easy victory

AT THE START of the 1978 season Rocky Pena, a 1977 graduate of Westmont high school, held almost all of the career, season and single game pass receiving records for the Warriors.

But one of Pena's more impressive records was erased last week during Westmont's 41-0 humbling of the Camden Cougars.

Senior wide receiver Steve Moore replaced Pena in the Warrior record book under the heading "most yardage, single game, receiver."

Moore caught a career high eight passes last Friday for 159 yards, breaking Pena's old standard of 157 yards.

"It wasn't just a case of the quarterback putting the ball right there, either," praised Warrior head coach Don Stagnaro. "He made some really excellent catches."

Moore's brilliant individual effort, which included two touchdown catches, was more than enough to carry the Warriors to their third West Valley Athletic League victory in five outings.

MOORE, WHO leads the Warriors in pass receptions and pass receiving yardage this season, caught both of his touchdowns during a 20 point second quarter outburst.

Quarterback Mike Grado, who completed seven of 15 passes for 152 yards before giving way to back-up Bill Ebert, fired a 36 yard TD pass to Moore to ignite the second period blitz.

After Bill Stouffer returned a pass interception 33 yards for a TD, Grado and Moore teamed up again, this time for an 18 yard scoring strike.

By halftime the Warriors held a commanding 34-0 lead and the Cougars were well on the way to their fifth straight defeat.

"We got off to a fast start and things just seemed to snowball," remarked Stagnaro. "From then on everything seemed to go right for us."

Manuel Gandarilla, who carried the ball nine times for 60 yards, opened the Warrior scoring in the first quarter with a three yard touchdown run.

Paul Hamill booted the extra point, one of five he kicked on the day.

Later in the quarter, Rich Elson scored from two yards out.

HAMILL CAPPED the Warrior rout in the fourth quarter when he hauled in a 40 yard touchdown pass from Ebert, who completed three of six passes for 52 yards in relief of Grado.

The Warriors finished the game with 379 yards of total offense, netting 214 through the air and 165 on the ground.

Perry Lunt was Westmont's leading ground gainer with 63 yards in 14 rushes.

Stagnaro singled out Ken Pappa, Greg Gorman, Mike Kasolas and Rick Lococo for their blocking in the Warriors' offensive line. Kasolas, a tight end, and Lococo, a tackle, were both making their first varsity starts.

Defensive standouts in the win included Bruce Blacker, Stouffer, Gorman, Elson and Pappa.

The Warrior defense held the Cougars to just six yards on the ground.

Westmont, which improved its overall record to 3-3, travels to Campbell Friday for a 3 p.m. game with the always-tough Buccaneers.

"It'll be a very tough ballgame," promised Stagnaro. "It's always a big one for us."

Cat comeback kills Blackford upset bid

BLACKFORD had Los Gatos coach Charlie Wedemeyer worried Friday afternoon when the Braves went into the lockerroom at halftime with a 13-7 lead.

It could have been 16-7 had a field goal attempt late in the second quarter not been blocked, and the Braves had all but shut down Los Gatos' potent offense.

But the Wildcats' coach made some adjustments at halftime and the Braves could not keep up, falling to the league-leaders 34-13.

"I was really concerned in the first half," said Wedemeyer. "We weren't executing properly and they were hurting us with the pass."

It appeared as if it was going to be a runaway when Los Gatos took the opening kick and drove 59 yards in six plays. Jeff Petulla covered the final 10 yards after picking up 32 yards on two pass receptions.

But for the rest of the first half it was all Blackford.

Early in the second quarter the Braves were forced to punt, sending the Wildcats back to their own 29-yard line.

On first down Los Gatos quarterback Kent Gerber dropped back to pass but Mike de la Pena stepped in front of the intended receiver and returned the ball to the Los Gatos 14.

On the very next play de la Pena passed to Paul Zamperian for a touchdown. de la Pena booted the extra point and the game was tied.

Los Gatos began to march back down field but Zamperian picked off a Gerber pass and raced 30 yards to the Los Gatos 20.

ON FIRST down de la Pena passed to Larry Young and Blackford was on top 13-7. The extra point attempt was blocked.

Petulla fumbled on Los Gatos' next possession with Blackford recovering on the Los Gatos 49. Young picked up 18 yards on two carries and de la Pena passed for 15 more yards to Dave Payne. Payne caught another pass for 29 yards to the Los Gatos six.

It appeared as though the Braves were ready to take a commanding lead when they lined up with a first and goal to go from the six, but de la Pena tossed three incomplete passes.

On fourth down the Braves lined up for a field goal attempt, but Los Gatos' Rob Zarcone blocked de la Pena's kick and the half ended with Blackford ahead only 13-7.

The second half was all Los Gatos', the Cats scoring on their first possession when Petulla burst loose for 51 yards. The kick was good and Los Gatos never trailed again.

Blackford was most impressive through the air, where de la Pena completed 13 of 24 passes for 156 yards. The Braves were held to only 36 yards on the ground.

Blackford ran 48 offensive plays to Los Gatos' 52, and the Braves picked up 19 first downs to Los Gatos' 24.

Penalties were about even as well, Los Gatos penalized five times for 37 yards while the Braves were called seven times for 47 yards.

The Braves will try and get back on the inning track Friday when they play Prospect at Prospect beginning at 3 p.m.

Another miserable week for SUNseers

IT WAS ANOTHER rough week for the prep football predictors at the SUN. Those teams of the Santa Teresa Athletic League crossed us up again.

A 7-6 win by Willow Glen over Gunderson and a 21-14 upset win by Gilroy over San Jose left us with a 2-2 record for the week and an 18-17 record overall on the season.

This week looks like a perfecto though. Gilroy visits Willow Glen, Live Oak is at Leland and Lincoln travels to Pioneer for 3 p.m. games Friday and Gunderson meets San Jose that night at 7:30 p.m. at San Jose City College.

We'll go with Gilroy by six, Leland by four, Lincoln by eight and San Jose by six.

Anglers propose change to protect salmon, steelhead

A CHANGE in angling regulations that will result in significantly higher returns of adult salmon and steelhead to the heavily-fished San Lorenzo River was recently proposed by the Northern California Council of Fly Fishing Clubs.

The regulation change would delay the opening of trout season on the tributaries of the San Lorenzo River one month to the end of June.

The Department of Fish and Game has conducted studies which have shown that only 65 percent of the young fish migrating to the sea are able to escape before the current trout season opens. The proposed regulation would provide full protection for the remaining 35 percent of these smolts.

The main San Lorenzo River would be closed during the summer trout season. However, trout fishing would still be permitted in the tributaries from July 1 through Nov. 15. No change in the fall-winter season for adult fish has been proposed.

The recent drought, declining habitat in the river due to siltation, and a rapidly increasing population in Santa Cruz County have all combined to produce a sharp decline in the number of adult fish returning to the river. Disease problems at the State's Mad River hatchery have resulted in no plants of young steelhead by the DFG in recent years.

Wind blows Buc hopes for win

By RANDY FREY

IT WAS a game that Campbell had to win to stay in the West Valley Athletic League football race, but the Bucaneers simply could not handle two opponents at once and fell 10-6 to a very tough Branham team.

One of the opponents was the powerful Branham squad, a team which has three running backs who are all capable of breaking for big yardage. The other foe was the wind, and the force of nature blew the Bucs in the wrong direction more times than not.

Campbell quarterback Bob Greisinger had to throw into the stiff breeze during the second and third periods, and in the fourth period, when the wind was at his back, it played a big factor in his overthrowing wide open Ken Schmidt in what would have been the winning touchdown.

The wind was blowing so hard that the flags in the Branham band were standing straight out. Just before the Branham band took the field at halftime a Campbell punt was caught in the wind and sailed backwards, leaving Branham in excellent field position and setting up the winning field goal.

NOW WITH a 2-2 record in WVAL play, Campbell will have to win all its remaining four games if it is to stay in the title chase. Even then its chances of a championship are slim, to say the least.

The Bucs did get on the scoreboard first Friday, scoring in the second quarter before the wind started blowing when Greisinger hit Jeff Melrose with a seven-yard touchdown pass.

The rest of the second quarter, however, was a nightmare.

Branham took the ensuing kick and drove to the Campbell 35-yard line before Melrose intercepted an Al Juarez pass down on the six. He was tackled immediately.

Jack Murdick picked up a yard on first down and Manuel Rodriguez gained five on second down, but a delay of game penalty moved the Bucs back five. A James Silvas punt from the nine-yard line was necessitated.

THE BOOT was held up by the stiff breeze, but it did manage to roll to the Campbell 40 after taking a favorable bounce. Nevertheless, the Bruins were only 40 yards away from the end zone.

And it didn't take them long to get there either. Three plays to be exact.

Mark Triplett broke off tackle for 24 yards on first down and for eight more on the next play. Vic Madden then burst over from the eight and Alan Painter added the extra point kick.

Painter's kick-off, aided by Mother Nature, sailed clear out of the end zone giving the Bucs the ball on their own 20.

Murdick got two on first down before Greisinger was sacked back at the 13 on second down. Another punt was necessary, and this time Silvas' kick not only was shanked off the side of the foot, it was caught up in the wind and blown backwards. The end result was a net one-yard punt.

With the ball on the Campbell 16, Branham seemed a sure bet to score again, but the Bucs were able to hold.

Painter came on to attempt a 37-yard field goal, normally out of his range. But with the stiff breeze at his back he split the uprights with ease.

CAMPBELL took the second half kick-off and began to march right back down field, but the drive stopped when Murdick fumbled on the Branham 34.

Juarez fumbled the ball back on the next play, but Greisinger was intercepted on the play after that to give the ball back to Branham.

The Bruins, aided by a 56-yard pass from Juarez to Painter, drove all the way to the Campbell three-yard line but could not punch it in for the score.

Taking over deep in its own territory, Campbell moved to its own 40 before punting. On the Bucs' final possession they could not get past their own 26.

Murdick was the leading ball carrier for the Bucs, picking up 64 yards on 16 carries. Rodriguez had four yards on five carries and Dave Erkman had 23 yards on six carries.

Through the air, Greisinger was seven for 11 for 61 yards and one touchdown. He had two passes intercepted.

Melrose caught three passes for 29 yards and one touchdown. Erkman caught two passes for 17 yards and Murdick caught one for eight yards.

Campbell will try and get back on the winning track Friday when it plays Westmont at 3 p.m.

Spartans to host prep grid contest

FOR THE past two months, high school football players have been throwing, punting and place-kicking footballs all over the valley looking out for the best interests of their teams.

But in early December in Spartan Stadium, high school gridders will get to perform in their own best interests when San Jose State University will host the first Spartan "Boot, Throw and Kick" contest for prep football players.

On Dec. 2, prior to the San Jose State-Cal State Long Beach football game, prepsters will get together for punting and field goal kicking at 10:30 a.m. and will take part in the passing segment of the competition at 11:15 a.m.

Each player will be allowed two efforts per event with his best mark being recorded. The top three finishers per category will be introduced at halftime of the 1 p.m. game.

In conjunction with the contest, all high school students showing their student body cards will be allowed entrance to the San Jose State game for just $1. Stadium gates open at 10 a.m.

Any player wishing to compete in the San Jose State event should contact his high school coach or call 277-3241.

Rude Indians thump Del Mar gridders

DEL MAR had the week off in West Valley Athletic League play, but the Dons did not find the going any easier in the tough De Anza League.

Del Mar in fact found Fremont high school a rude host as the Indians romped to a 34-6 win over Del Mar to help celebrate its Homecoming.

Fremont was coming off a heartbreaking loss to Lynbrook and was looking for revenge. The Indians are also getting ready to play league-leading Saratoga and were looking for momentum to carry into that contest.

The result was two touchdowns in their first two possessions and a defense that held the Dons scoreless. Del Mar's only touchdown came on a 95-yard kick-off return by Chris Duncan following Fremont's third touchdown of the game.

"I thought we did a pretty good job," said Fremont coach Ron Edwards after the game. "We got some breaks early and were able to hold them on defense.

"Del Mar did a real good up front," said Edwards. "They have some good people on the line but we were able to get the ball outside and cause a little trouble."

THE INDIANS received the opening kick and drove right in for the score, Scott Wilkerson running for the final 15 yards.

Del Mar could not move the ball against the rugged Fremont defense and was forced to punt, and shortley thereafter quarter Sander Markel tossed a 41-yard pass to Rick Ashby to give the Indians a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Fremont made it 21-0 early in the second quarter when Markle kept around end for 11 yards and a touchdown. But on the ensuing kick Duncan raced 95 yards to bring the Dons within 15 points.

Fremont scored again on its first possession of the second half when Markel dashed 26 yards around right end. The score was set up with a 26-yard pass from Markel to Ashby.

Del Mar put together a good drive following the Fremont score when Jim Holman returned the kick-off 30 yards to the Del Mar 35.

QUARTERBACK Bruce Prothro passed 11 yards to Duncan for a first down and the ball as advanced 15 more yards on the next play when Fremont interferred with Him Holman.

The Dons picked up another first down when Prothro passed to Duncan for nine yards and then ran for six more to the Fremont 25-yard line. But that would be as far as Del Mar would go.

"They are a damn good football team," said Del Mar coach Ron Leimboch of the Indians. "They have great running backs and a very tough line."

Leimboch said he was pleased with his team's effort and the fact that they did not quit after being down early.

"We are good at bouncing back and I think we will bounce back this week against Leigh," said the coach.

Leimboch singled out Shedrick Chandler as having played an excellent game at linebacker. He also said sophomore Tim Sutro played a good game at both offensive and defensive guard.

Prothro ended the game Del Mar's leading ball carrier, picking up 46 yards on 10 carries. He passed for 56 yards with four completions on 11 attempts.

Three of the completions were to Duncan for 45 yards.

Panthers start fast but fall to Longhorns, 11-7

THINGS started off well for the Prospect Panthers last Friday. But unfortunately for Earl Adams' club, the rest of the game was quite a different story.

After grabbing an early 7-0 lead, the Panthers were shut-out over the final three periods of play and wound up dropping a 17-7 decision to the Kevin Kevorkain-led Leigh Longhorns.

The loss left Prospect with a 1-3 record in West Valley Athletic League play and a 1-5 overall mark.

The Panthers will try to improve on their record Friday afternoon when they play host to the visiting Blackford Braves, 34-13 losers to Los Gatos last week. Game time is 3 p.m.

The Panthers took the early lead last Friday on a 10 yard touchdown run by Dave Maloney. It was Maloney's seventh touchdown of the season and his fifth in the last three games.

But the Longhorns tied the game by halftime on a 24 yard touchdown run by Kevorkian and an extra point kick by Joe Vitale.

Kevorkian snapped the tie in the third period with a two yard touchdown jaunt. Vitale again added the extra point.

Vitale put the game out of reach in the fourth quarter when he split the uprights with a 28 yard field goal.

The victory evened Leigh's record at 2-2-1 in WVAL play.

On a one-of-a-kind instrument

He's a 1-man orchestra

WILLY MAY has been the most faithful user of Santa Clara Senior Center's woodworking shop, where he has hand-built a unique instrument that will simulate the sounds of a symphony.

By CAROLYN LEAL

IT TOOK Willy May 32 years but he finally did it. He built a one-of-a-kind instrument called the Symphonic-Chord. It's a project that has absorbed most of his waking hours over the past three decades.

The Symphonic-Chord is an electronically amplified instrument of amazing versatility. In enables one person - flicking switches, pumping pedals, plucking strings and pressing keys - to turn into a veritable symphonic orchestra.

"You are not hearing one man on one instrument, you are hearing a whole symphonic orchestra," says May, with a touch of his native German accent. "One has to hear to believe."

One also has to see the hand-crafted instrument to comprehend its complexity. It has a guitar-like string fingerboard, a piano-like keyboard of 37 keys and 13 foot pedals similar to an electric organ — all amplified in stereo.

Instrumental tones, varying from violin to trumpet to clarinet, can be created by pushing one of 14 preset levers, says May. He lifts the burled wood top of the instrument to show a belly full of tiny maze-like electronic wires. It resembles the inside of a pinball machine.

THE COMPLEXITY of May's creation boggles the mind. Parts have had to be painstakingly designed, developed, fabricated and tested. And then sometimes they didn't work. The string fingerboard alone took years to develop. "Other parts have taken from 50 to 100 hours in the making," says May, a spry silver-haired senior.

May, a Sunnyvale resident, has done much of the work on his Symphonic-Chord at the Santa Clara Senior Center's woodworking shop. Often he has been asked, "How can you make something like that?"

"One has to be a little eccentric," he answers with a smile.

The construction of the amazing instrument hasn't been without sacrifice. For the last 32 years, much of May's life has been dominated by the project. "Pressure was building up inside of me," he recalls. "I was hard to live with. Most of the time I was onery and self-centered. Sacrifices were many. I neglected my family, my friends. Vacation or time for leisure were out all together. Just work — long hours. Wee hours, constantly. I had only one objective in mind — to finish."

Many times he became discouraged and almost quit. Once, all of his tools were stolen from his Sunnyvale apartment house locker. And he had to replace them, one by one. It was expensive. "Many times I felt like throwing in the towel," says May. "But something kept me going."

FINALLY, IN early August he finished, clearing up the last of the electronic snafus that had snarled the project. He pressed the keys. "What a surprise," he recalls. "It worked."

He was alone at the time. "I could not share my happy feelings so I said a little prayer of thanks to our Creator who had given me patience and faith to succeed."

He unveiled his Symphonic-Chord recently at the Santa Clara Senior Center to the oohs and aahs of staff members. But it was not plugged in. Having built the sophisticated musical instrument, May must now learn how to play it.

"I have something nobody else has," he says. "Nobody can tell me how, show me how or teach me how to play it."

Water district to test for asbestos

By CAROLYN LEAL

THE SANTA Clara Valley Water District has been ordered by the state Health Department to test local drinking water for potentially harmful asbestos fibers and to determine the best way to filter out as much asbestos as possible.

The testing, slated to begin this week, is prompted by a University of California doctoral thesis which found a link between large quantities of asbestos in Bay Area drinking water and human cancer.

The thesis by Marty S. Kanarek, a doctoral candidate at Berkeley, took 1969-71 Bay Area cancer deaths and traced them to 722 census tracts. He then analyzed 353 water samples, both before and after treatment. His startling conclusion: The areas with the highest presence of asbestos fibers in the drinking water also had the highest incidence of cancer of the lining of the lung and chest, cancers of the gallbladder and pancreas.

While Kanarek's thesis showed a definite statistical correlation between asbestos in drinking water and gastro-intestinal cancer, it did not indict asbestos in water as a cause of cancer. (By contrast, airborne asbestos fibers have long been known to cause cancer.)

"IT HAS not been established that ingesting asbestor fibers from water is hazardous," explains Henry Ongerth, chief of the sanitary engineering section of the California Department of Health Services at Berkeley.

"There's a lot more we ought to know," conceded Ongerth. "Significant levels of asbestos are found in most water in the Bay Area. "There is a possible risk in the water. If we can do something that costs pennies per million gallons, it looks prudent to do it. It looks like cheap insurance for something that may be shown one day to be harmful."

As a result of the furor that the U.C. Berkeley study caused, the State Health Department has ordered water districts in six Bay Area counties to "promptly initiate investigations to determine what method of pre-treatment will maximize the removal of asbestos" in their water filtration operations.

According to Ongerth, with minor modifications in current water filtration, the level of asbestos in water can be reduced substantially.

WATER THAT flows out of the tap in Bay Area homes currently contains about a million asbestos fibers per liter, estimates Ongerth. Asbestos gets into water naturally as the water flows over an asbestos-bearing rock called serpentine, which is so common in California that it is the state rock. The asbestos is picked up in the water's journey from the Sierra Mountains to Bay Area faucets via the South Bay Aqueduct and Hetch Hetchy Water Systems. Local drinking water also comes from gound wells and those, too, will be tested by the Santa Clara Valley Water District.

The district supplies water to Cupertino, Sunnyvale, San Jose, Campbell and Santa Clara, San Jose Water Works and California Water Works, which retail to the remaining cities in the county.

Water samples will be taken from a variety of areas and tested for asbestos content, both before and after filtration. One test will be made by flushing water through a two-mile length of asbestos-cement pipe, which is widely used to carry drinking water in this area.

The tests cost roughly $300 each and consist of peering at a water sample under a powerful electron microscope and counting the asbestos particles. The fibers are so tiny that they cannot be seen under a normal microscope. They are said to be 1/1,000th the size of a human eyelash.

NOT ALL water officials are embracing the testing program.

One of the problems is there are no standards developed to tell what is safe and what is not. "We test the water 100 times a day for bacteria," says Santa Clara Water Department's Bob Mortenson, "and we have standards to tell us what is acceptable, but we have none for asbestos."

Dan Kriege, head of operations for the Santa Clara Valley Water District, complains, "All of a sudden we are off and running and not sure what direction they want us to run in. There are no guidelines for how much asbestos is potentially harmful."

Ongerth says it is possible to remove asbestos in water to below the detectable level of 10,000 fibers per liter. "So, as a rule of thumb, this is what we are striving for. We are not saying, 'Remove the fibers.' We are saying, 'Do what you can do.' "

The biggest problem, says Ongerth, is that the initial testing is expensive. By contrast, the actual modification of water filtration to reduce asbestos is relatively inexpensive. It would only cost pennies per gallon, says the Health Department official.

"Some people are saying, 'Why should our water district spend any money on doing something not proved to be harmful,' " says Ongerth. "On the other hand maybe we are going to find out ultimately asbestos in the water is going to do us harm and we ought to be doing something about it."

The doctoral thesis that originally brought the asbestos problem to homes via newspaper headlines and TV tubes dealt only with five counties: Contra Costa, San Francisco, San Mateo, Marin and Alameda. It did not include Santa Clara County.

This county has been included in the Department of Health directive because it gets water via the South Bay Aquaduct system the same as the other counites.

Lowriders pay Campbell a visit Nov. 4

The parking lot of the Campbell library will be sporting vintage lowriders on Saturday, November 4 at a special program designed to bring some of the Chicano subculture to Campbell.

Presidents of several eastside San Jose lowrider groups and their cars will arrive at the 70 N. Central ave. library at 2 p.m. that day.

"Lowriders have long suffered bad reputations as rough gangs, hellions, rebels, etc.," said Librarian Lani Yoshimura. "In truth there are some rough clubs but some lowriders band together to restore old vintage cars, others work hard to pay for the upkeep of their cars — their source of pride."

The library also plans to present a film, "Lowrider" as part of the afternoon program.

CAMPBELLITES Temineha Del Grande and Carol Burdick, from left, are two of the featured performers in "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" to be presented October 25-28 by the West Valley College drama department. Also featured are Cheryl Pellicano and Aram Henesian. Tickets for the 8:15 performances can be obtained by calling 867-2200, ext. 324 or at the campus theater door that night.
